

Video Surveillance and Access Control Design & Installation

Healthcare

Protect your healthcare facility with a comprehensive video surveillance and access control security solution from Oliver Communications. Healthcare facilities are responsible for protecting more than just medications and records, but also for providing doctors, nurses, patients, staff and visitors with a safer environment. Oliver Communications can design and install nurse call systems, video surveillance of key areas inside and outside of the facility, access control to ensure only authorized people are accessing critical areas, and license plate recognition at the entrances and exits to the hospital or healthcare facility parking areas.

Our systems will help with such things as securing data centers and critical data storage areas. With important data such as patient files, research material and a other critical information now being stored on computer servers, healthcare organizations are implementing network video surveillance products to secure their server rooms. We have systems that will allow authorized hospital staff to view live images of different locations from any workstation. They can also receive instant alerts if motion is detected in any area being monitored.

Our video servers and audio modules can be used to provide top quality video and audio feeds via a secure, high bandwidth connection to doctors in remote locations. The network video technology enables doctors and nurses specializing in intensive care medicine to communicate with Emergency and ICU caregivers and patients from a remote monitoring center.

For a security system with the latest technology features for healthcare security call Oliver Communications now.
